ALBUQUERQUE MAY GET MOVIE FOLK TO LOCATE

Buck Connors Home Again; Recommends City as Ideal Place for Filming of Bower Stories Bought by American

Albuquerque may again become a center in the industry of motion pictures.

Buck Connors of this city, who lately sold forty-six of D. M. Bower's western stories to the American company, has recommended this city as the ideal location for turning these into pictures.

Connors, who reached the city from California last night for a vacation of a couple of months after a strenuous summer at Lake Tahoe with J. Warren Keenan, took up the subject of getting the American people to see with great business men and was assured that Albuquerque would be anything within reason to induce them to locate in the city. He telegraphed this afternoon to one of the officials of the American company now in Chicago, telling him to stop off here on his way back to California, that he might repeat his offer and its conditions.

"California is not the best place," he said, "and you can't get the same stories there as you can here. I have given up the idea of going to the west and believe it or not, I am going to make the American management will give this city careful consideration."

VICE PRESIDENT TO BE IN THE CITY NEXT TUESDAY

Couldn't Change His Arrangements So as to Come When the Teachers Are Here; Public Levee.

Vice President Thomas H. Marshall and his wife will visit Albuquerque next Tuesday. They will stop off here between trains on their way from their home in Scotland, Ariz.

The general public will be given an opportunity to meet the vice president at a levee to be held at Senator Barth's residence.

The Marshall family will arrive on train No. 2, due at 2:15 a.m. After lunch at the Barth home they will be taken by the senator on an automobile trip about town. The levee, from 4:30 until 6 o'clock, will follow the automobile ride. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall will continue their journey at 6:45 a.m.

The levee will be open to everyone who wishes to meet and greet the vice president. There will be no special invitations. Everyone, whether he or she knows the Barth or Marshall family, is invited to the levee.

Senator Barth made an effort to have the vice president change his dates so he could come here for the teachers' convention and address the educators. The vice president was offered $250 for a speech, and it would have taken him only an hour to make it. In the telegram he sent to Senator Barth today, Marshall stated that he couldn't change his arrangements. The vice president said he would have been only too glad to speak to the teachers without compensation had he been able to change his arrangements.

Miss Bernard, who appears in the deeply moving and appealing role of Lady Babbalanza in the William Fox production of "The Little Gypsy," is the youngest and most popular emotional actress appearing before the public. Despite the fact that she is scarcely more than fifteen years old, her name is known around the world and critics of many lands have acclaimed her as a transcendent dramatic genius.

Miss Bernard was born in South Africa and her earliest recollections are of a fatherly Irish boy who captivated in the rough country of the veldt as her nurse. During the trying days of the first war this lad, as Miss Bernard was then called, was taken as the traditional son of a soldier, more than once rescued his life from the hands of the Germans.

Miss Bernard was christened in a small church that stood next door to the home of her father, a distinguished colonel.

"The Little Gypsy" will be at the Theatre on Sunday and Monday next.

WHITECAP CASE IS AGAIN SENT BACK FOR TRIAL

Supreme Court Reverses Conviction of Mountainair Men Second Time; One Defendant Dies Pending Appeal.

For the second time the supreme court yesterday reversed the convictions in the celebrated Mountainair whitecap case. Whether the two defendants who would be arraigned in event of another trial will go before a third jury is doubtful.

Mrs. Joseph Knapp and Albert Knapp, who would be the chief prosecuting witnesses, are now living in Oklahoma, and it is said that they are not likely to return for another trial.

The whitecap case started in 1909 when a violent movement to clean up Mountainair was started. Mrs. Knapp and Knapp were warned to leave town. Knapp headed the warning but Mrs. Knapp stayed, and on August 15 whitecaps surrounded her house and shot it full of holes.

The case created a lot of excitement and talk, but it was not until a year later that arrests were made.

Joseph Perkins, Charles Noble, George Dunn, John Quinn, John Dunn and Francis Joiner were indicted. Joiner and John Dunn were out of the state by that time, and they have never been brought to trial. Perkins, Noble, George Dunn and Griffin were tried and convicted.

They retained Senator Isaac Barth and Judge E. A. Mison to fight their case on appeal, and the supreme court reversed the conviction and ordered a new trial. At the second trial the men were again convicted, in passing sentence Judge Medler suspended Griffin's penalty.

Sensor Barth again appealed the case for Perkins, Noble and George Dunn. Griffin was satisfied to let the matter rest with a suspension, and no appeal was made in his case.

While the appeal was pending Joseph Perkins died, leaving George Dunn and Noble the only two of the original six defendants within reach for trial. Senator Barth doesn't like his clients will be called upon to stand trial again, but is confident they will be acquitted if they face another jury.
